

Sister Judy Zielinski (photo above right) was presented the Gabriel Award for her work on the one-hour documentary, Interrupted Lives: Catholic Sisters Under European Communism, which explores the experiences of Eastern-rite and Roman-rite Catholic Sisters during the 40-year Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

The Gabriel Award is awarded to works that recognize the importance of film in conveying the human condition enhancing our understanding of our relationships with those we know and those we may never meet.

The Gabriel Awards were presented at the Catholic Media Convention in New Orleans in early June, 2010.
